THE AIMS OF THE SECOND TEST

The writing test questions are made in incomplete passages or dialogues, and there is one part that the learners have to know how to pronounce the words well. Therefore, they have to be able to choose one word which does not have the same sound as the other three words provided.

The speaking test topics are chosen from the materials that they have already got in their English classes, so they know well what they have to deliver in their speaking test. They will be assessed how fluent their English is, and how good their pronunciation is in expressing their ideas, and how fit the content is with the topic chosen.

As the result, the learners will be put in two classes. However, they will get the same goals in learning, a bit different treatment in teaching.
